Dear Friends,

'May you live in interesting times', a Chinese proverb says. And indeed we are living in those times with change accelerating around us in every segment of our lives. Rapid economic growth (albeit for only a segment of our societies) presented by capitalism and globalization brought changes some of us couldn't even dare to imagine. There is a big shift in human migration in gigantic proportions. Wealth and technology made the world smaller. We are able to experience human diversity in food, clothing, music and culture. And yet, when it comes to political ideology and economic thought, we are encouraged to think alike. What does economic growth means, and how to measure it? How to achieve egalitarian growth? Political thought that governs the direction of our growth in every society and country is being encouraged to move towards a single thought/ideology.

It is in this context we felt the need to provide an alternative thought process. We present you a website (<http://lohiatoday.com>) dedicated to Dr. Rammanohar Lohia. Lohia was a freedom fighter, founder of Indian Socialist movement, Gandhian, ardent fighter for a casteless and classes society and above all, an original thinker. It is our fervent hope that you take the time to learn of Dr. Lohia's life, and political philosophy, and learn of other means to have a happy, healthy, and prosperous world for all the humankind.

We encourage you to save this website to your favorites, and keep visiting to read new articles and site updates. We also welcome any feedback in improving this website. Thank you.

Last but not the least; we request all of you to forward this email to your friends and family. Please help us in introducing and disseminating Lohia's political philosophy and to look at alternatives that were being forgotten. Thank you very much for all your help.
